way to showcase the region's produce and the talents of the many chefs that call Port Douglas home".
 Carnivale general manager Ken Dobbs welcomed the sponsorship and is asking for further support from Cairns and Port Douglas businesses, either through donations of cash or products that could be used as prizes.
 Organisers are calling for people who are interested in volunteering to visit the website and register.
 "People should let us know what their skills are or whether they're just happy to volunteer their time, it might be to assist at the street parade or on beach day," said Mr Dobbs.

Inspirational Cairns lawyer in new book

SHE might describe herself as a "Murri from Cairns" but Terri Janke's story has been deemed remarkable enough to be included in a new book profiling inspirational Australian women.
 Author Karen Phillips chose Terri as one of 50 women to feature in Women's Words of Wisdom, Power & Passion.
 The book shares the experiences of leading women from athlete Cathy Freeman to model Miranda Kerr.
 Now living in Sydney, Terri is a lawyer at her own firm which specialises in representing indigenous artists and creators.
 She is also a speaker, author, board member of Tourism Australia, consultant to the World Intellectual Property Or-

High achiever: Lawyer Terri Janke features in a new book organisation and former chairwoman of National Indigenous Television.
 "Terri wasn't quite what I had expected as a lawyer, she was extremely warm and giving and when I told her about the project she was thrilled and humbled to be a part," said Karen.
 In the book, Terri recalls the best lesson her mother taught her: "When it gets hard, that's when most people give up — keep going and you will achieve."
